PREFACE

A Beginning in 1905

At the Annual Meeting of the German Baptist Brethren Church (Tunkers) at Bristol, Tenn., in 1905 a Wine reunion was held, with Eld. David D. Wine of Covington, Ohio, presiding. He was a grandson of George, No. 4, the oldest child of Michael Wine (1747-1822), No. 3. After some discussion on the importance of preserving the family history, a committee of three was appointed to trace the descendants of Michael Wine and publish the findings. The committee was composed of Eld. David G. Wine of Enders, Nebr., a grandson of Michael, No. 12, fifth son and ninth child of Michael, No. 3; Elijah T. Wine, Jonesboro, Tenn., a grandson of Christian, No. 13, sixth son and eleventh child of Michael 3; and Eld. Daniel P. Wine, Forestville, Va., a grandson of John 5, second child of Michael 3.

This committee, after some correspondence, decided to do two things: (1) To trace the descendants of the five daughters of Michael 3 in the same manner as those of the six sons; (2) that each committeeman should concentrate upon his own grandfather's family. In each of the other eight branches of the third generation a secretary was to be appointed to trace out his branch. A few of these secretaries did considerable work, but on the whole the plan was not a success.

The undersigned (author) became associated in the work with his father, Eld. Daniel P. Wine, in 1906, and at his death in 1923 took charge of the records that had been gathered. In 1926 Eld. Alonzo F. Wine of the Daniel 6 branch became very much interested in the family history, and on learning that the present author was not desirous of publishing, but was willing to turn over his collection of records to another, he began in great earnestness to complete the work with a view to having it published. But he, like many others who enter the field of genealogy and local history, did not foresee the vast amount of time, work, patience, and determination it takes to accomplish such a task. All authors of genealogy will bear testimony to the difficulties and discouragements encountered. There are many persons who either will not honor a request for their family record or wait months before doing so. A few flatly refuse to co-operate. Such tardiness and indifference caused Elder Alonzo to become discouraged and quit.

At his death in 1934 his daughter, Dr. Celesta Wine, then a student in the University of Chicago, took up where he left off. She has done considerable work, especially in the early history of the Wines. She had planned to have her materials on the eleven branches of the Michael Wine 3 family ready for publication in 1949, the 200th anniversary of our ancestor's coming to America, but World War II caused a suspension of the work. At the same time her work as professor of English in Winthrop College was extended to a twelve-month basis. Since then she has had very little time for outside activities.

At the death of Elijah T. Wine his son Bruce, now also deceased, and his cousin, Eld. John M. Wyne, of Santa Ana, Calif., took up the task where Bruce's father had left off. Eld. John M. is still working on his grandfather's branch.

It should be noted here that some members of the family, for different reasons, have changed the spelling of their name from Wine to Wyne.

In 1927 Mr. Earl Harvey of Jasper, Mo., set out to learn how his grandmother Harvey's father, Daniel Wine 18, the fourth son of George Wine 4, was related to the Wines in the counties of Shenandoah and Rockingham, Virginia. Without his help it is doubtful whether either Daniel Wine 18 or his brother Solomon 20 would have been found, inasmuch as their relatives here in the East seemed to have lost all trace of them. Mr. Harvey has traced his branch, with a good portion of Solomon's family, and has made other valuable contributions to this volume, for which the author is most grateful.

A Revival in 1947

In 1947 strong pressure was brought to bear on the author to finish up and publish the data that are to be found in this section, this to be the first of possibly three or four sections. This plan was decided upon after consultation with Eld. David G. Wine, the only surviving member of the original committee, Dr. Celesta Wine, and others; and the author was prevailed upon to publish this first section. He realizes that it is far from perfection. One thing that has made his work much more arduous is the expansion of the original plan. When the first records were gathered, only a few items such as name, dates of birth and death, name of person married, with place of marriage, were thought of as necessary; but as civilization became more complex it was felt that additional information, for example, place of birth, residence, or at least the latest postoffice address, should be given. And the author was later advised that he ought to give the occupation (trade, profession, or business, etc.) and the names of the parents of those who married into the family. These items he found it much more difficult to get than it was to get the facts that were first collected. In some instances the person who gathered a large block of family records failed to include some of the items mentioned. Parents in telling of their children often failed to give all the particulars called for on the record blanks sent to them. As a result some of the records will be found incomplete.

The postoffice address of each living descendant is given, when known, as it was when the individual or family record was received. Since then many have changed their place of residence and their address, but it is hoped that the number still having the same addresses will be sufficient to justify the space they occupy. There were some whose street addresses were not given, and the author was accordingly unable to contact them for additional information.

The German Baptist Brethren

This church, up to 1905, when the general conference was held at Bristol and the first Wine reunion was held, was mainly rural. As the migration from farm to city increased it became necessary to follow up the members with city missions. In cities the name "German Baptist Brethren" was misleading; by many it was taken to mean the Missionary Baptist Church, holding its services in the German language, the use of which had been discontinued by the "German Baptist Brethren" many years earlier. To avoid this confusion the name was changed between 1905 and 1908 to "The Church of the Brethren."

At some time between 1879 and 1882 members of the church of the extreme "right" had withdrawn and formed the "Old German Baptist Church"; and about the same time a number on the extreme "left" withdrew and formed the "Brethren Church." Some years later a smaller group withdrew and are known as the "Dunker Brethren."

Since much the largest group of the "German Baptist Brethren" continued undivided and took the name "The Church of the Brethren," it may properly be regarded as the "mother church"; and the author, with all due courtesy to the other branches, will use the name "Church of the Brethren" when he has to refer to the "mother church."

Michael Wine 3, his wife, his parents, his children and grandchildren were members of this church. Today it is estimated that fully 80 per cent of his descendants still belong to it. Some have married members of other churches, and some of these have followed their companions into other churches. Others have located in cities where there is no Church of the Brethren congregation and consequently have united with other denominations to have a church home. The author would have liked to give the church affiliation of each family or individual, but data gathered over a period of 45 years, with changes from time to time, and with large blocks of records defective in this respect, do not make it possible in every instance.

Credit Due the Women

The author, in his research work on the genealogy of the different families with which he is connected by birth, on the early history of his community and the history of Flat Rock Church of the Brethren, has come to the conclusion that the mothers, sisters, and daughters of the earlier generations did not get the full share of credit due them for what they did to make possible the accomplishments of the husbands, brothers, and fathers. Without their help many a man who reached a position outstanding in his community or in a wider area would not have won such notice. In view of this fact the occupation of the "in-law" is given in the following pages, when known, along with that of the lineal descendant, as in most cases the wife and mother, along with the husband and father, has contributed to their mutual success. The term "house wife" is seldom used and then only in connection with another outside job; but it is to be understood in this volume that all married women are regarded as house wives.

In reference to what is said at another place about the author being urged to go ahead with this publication, it may be related that recently another writer said to him, "If you old fellows do not make a record of the early traditions of the family that have come down to you, they will be lost to future generations." This he has endeavored to do in the write-up of the early generations, and in some instances there was but little beside tradition, or else it was not given to him.

Catherine and Susannah

Some may wonder why Catherine 10, the wife of Eld. Benjamin Bowman Jr. and the third daughter of Michael Wine 3, was chosen for this section. Her sister Susannah 11, the first wife of John Bowman, ought to have been the one selected for this volume, as John Bowman's second wife, Rebecca, 23, was the daughter of Susannah's brother, John Wine 5, whose descendants are in this section. But due to the fact that the descendants of one of Susannah's daughters have not been located, another had to be chosen. So to avoid a duplication of a major portion of Catherine's descendants in two different volumes of the descendants of Michael Wine 3, Catherine 10 was chosen. This condition was brought about by the marriage of her granddaughter, Susan Miller 114 to Martin Garber Cline 94, a grandson of John Wine 5, which caused the children of this marriage to be descendants of both Catherine Wine Bowman 10 and her brother, John Wine 5.

Four Jacob Wines

In this volume the author's grandfather is always referred to as "Elder Jacob Wine," for thus he was always known to the people of his community. He was thus distinguished from his first-cousin, Jacob Wine, son of Michael Wine 12, and from his nephew, Jacob Wine, son of Michael Wine 24, his older brother. They all lived near the village of Forestville, in Shenandoah County, Va. Shortly after the close of the Civil War another first-cousin, Jacob Wine, a son of Christian Wine 13, from Tennessee, came and spent some time near Forestville and Flat Rock and thus made the fourth Jacob Wine in that community.

In addition to the valuable assistance rendered by those named in the preceding paragraphs, special recognition and thanks are due the following:

There are many others that are worthy of mention, whose favors are remembered with gratitude. Helpful suggestions have been received from the following books:

"The Kagey Family," by Franklin Kagey;

Valuable items have been obtained from deeds, wills, the marriage license registers, and other court records of the counties of Shenandoah and Rockingham, Va.

The pictures in this volume have been made possible by donations of cuts or the money to have them made. This outcome is the result of an experiment. It was suggested to the author that he ask those interested to donate the price of a cut, and he is grateful to those who responded. In most instances the gift was to pay for a picture of the donor or his family or some member thereof; but special thanks are due to Dr. William E. Wine, Parker, Va., for providing for a number of cuts; to Mr. Earl Harvey, Jasper, Mo., for two additional cuts in addition to his own; to Joseph F. Wine, Bridgewater, Va., to Mrs. Edith Borger, Kirkland, Wash., and to Mrs. Lula Dull, Laverne, Calif., for their contributions on cuts, such as photostats and the house that Michael Wine 3 built in Shenandoah County, Va., when he located there in 1782; also to Eld. John M. Wyne, Santa Ana, Calif., for a generous donation for postage.

Numerous photographs, etc., from which cuts could be made, were donated or loaned. At least one picture appears from the descendants of each of the fifteen grandchildren of Michael Wine 3 that are presented in this section. Additional pictures were provided, and some lines may be a little top-heavy. Others were less enthusiastic and have fewer pictures.

Name and Number

For the convenience of readers and for easy identification, each lineal descendant, except those dying before reaching maturity, is given a number. The numbers first appear in listing the children of a family—after each child's name is its proper number, and the same number and name go together thereafter. For an example, let us begin with George Wine 4 (No. 4) and his wife Magdalen Garber. Their first child Michael is listed as follows:

"1. Michael Wine 15, b. March 4, 1797"

The figure before Michael's name means that he is the first or oldest child of his parents; the "15" after his name is his number and is found with his name wherever it later appears. Turning to No. 15 in the fourth generation we have:

"15 Michael Wine (son of George Wine No. 4), b. March 4, 1797, d. July 1, 1874; m. Catherine Arnold," etc.

"Children"

"1. Elizabeth Wine 30, b. June 16, 1826"

Thus, in the 4th generation Michael Wine appears as husband and father, his name preceded by his number, "15," and followed by his father's name and number in parenthesis. If the reader wishes to know who Michael's ancestors were he will turn back to No. 4 (George), and there learn that George 4 was a son of Michael Wine 3. Reference to No. 3 will show that Michael 3 was a son of John George Wine No. 1. If one wishes to find the descendants of Michael 15 through his daughter Elizabeth 30 he will turn forward to No. 30 where the names of her children are given, each with a number. By turning to these numbers in the next generation, the children of Elizabeth's children may be found; and so on, from generation to generation.

A letter, as A, B, or C, after a number simply means that such numbers were inserted after the body of the manuscript had been prepared.

INTRODUCTION

In this book about Michael Wine and his descendants we begin close to the farm and home and country church. As the paths diverge they lead to the cities and noisy industries, with the multiplying distractions of artificiality, but we cannot altogether forget the simple arts and sturdy virtues that gave skill and character to a young nation in the wilderness. And along with skill and strength, we discern in this family the solicitude of charity. I doubt whether another large family group can be found that has given a greater proportion of its men to the Christian ministry or more of its women to the service of nursing—caring for the sick and injured. In the kinship circle also are and have been a number of physicians. Ministering to the souls and bodies of men, these three groups have a significance: they speak of humanity and philanthrophy as characteristic qualities.

This branch of the Wines took root in Virginia in that area of Shenandoah County known as "The Forest," and the Forest became their chief geographical center of distribution. In the Forest they faced heavy tasks of felling trees, hewing logs, and grubbing stumps; much of the land was rough and rolling, but it was well watered and fertile; and there was a great flat rock on which they could build their church when the time came to do that. I have no doubt that they often called to mind what is said in the Gospels about building on a rock.

In 1775 or 1776 Eld. John Garber, from Pennsylvania or Maryland, came with his wife and six younger children and settled in the Forest, near Flat Rock. He and his family, so far as is known, were the first of the German Baptist Brethren (Tunkers) in this part of Virginia. Their presence here no doubt influenced Michael Wine in his choice of a new home. In 1782 he came with two of John Garber's older sons, Samuel and Martin, and Jacob Miller, all with their families. These named, with Eld. Christian Myers, his wife (Barbara Burkholder), and eight sons, who came in 1793, were the mainstay of the Tunker community around Flat Rock for many years.

But before the end of the century (1800) they had plenty of neighbors, most of whom, like themselves, were Germans; some of whom had settled in the Forest or near it as early as 1750, or earlier. Among the familiar family names were Andes, Branner, Harpine, Henkel, Herman, Holman, Pence, Roush, and Zirkle. All, or practically all of them, with others in the community, were either Lutherans or German Reformed. These two denominations together in 1793 built, and for many years thereafter used, Solomon's Church, located about a mile northwest from the site of Forestville. This village, which had its beginnings in 1800 or earlier, is located on the main road a mile or two northeast from Flat Rock. About the same distance northwest from Flat Rock the Moores at an early date built a dwelling house and a mill, and later opened a store. For many years Moore's Store has been a well-known postoffice. Some of these Moores, or some of those over to the southeast on or near Smith Creek, were Quakers, as the old county records show. There was a Quaker meeting place on or near Smith Creek as early as 1738.

In 1927 was published a history of Shenandoah County, by the undersigned, and in it is a chapter entitled "The Forest and the Fort." The part of this chapter, six or seven very interesting pages, that deals with the Forest, was written by Mr. Jacob David Wine, the author of this book. Already at that time he gave evidence of extended and careful study in local history and genealogy. During the quarter-century since then he has continued his investigations with diligence. Now he and those of his kindred who have joined with him in collecting, compiling, and publishing this record of the Wines and related families deserve the gratitude of thousands of people in many parts of the United States and other countries. Without the painstaking research of many years the facts herein presented could not have been assembled—most of them would have been lost; and if money as well as time and labor had not been expended in the project the information collected would have been available to only a few people. In this volume it is not only well preserved, it is at the same time made available in convenient form for an unlimited number of inquirers in this generation and all generations to come.

From year to year there is an increasing number of family reunions, indicating a growing interest in ancestors. The public libraries are responding to the growing demand for works on genealogy by constantly increasing the number of family histories on their shelves; but without "antiquarians" like David Wine, who dig and delve for most of a lifetime without any expectation of financial reward, the gaps in every family record would be larger and more numerous—more questions would remain unanswered. Not all the Wines are presented in this volume—much work remains for other researchers and compilers—but several thousand are here introduced.

Is it merely coincidental, or is it also significant and meaningful, that no fewer than six family histories, counting this one, have come out of or relate to the Forest? One of the early settlers at the site of Forestville was Casper Branner. In 1913, and perhaps at other times, one of his descendants, the eminent John Casper Branner of California and Brazil, published results of his researches on the family. In 1918 he attended a reunion at Forestville. The Henkels have from time to time issued interesting and valuable bulletins and historical narratives. They have been identified mainly with New Market, which is a few miles southeast from the Forest, but it is said that Rev. Paul Henkel was living near Forestville and Solomon's Church in 1802 when his son Ambrose, aged 16, started on foot for Hagerstown to learn the printing business.

The Roushes, who are credited with eight or nine soldiers in the Revolution, lived at various places in the Forest, all in time apparenttly moving west, except the dead. Not many years ago they published a handsome large volume on the family and erected a granite monument at the grave of the patriarch, John Roush, at Pine Church, two or three miles northeast from Forestville. Most of the early Kageys lived a few miles southeast from the Forest, but Jacob, the writer's grandfather, lived with his family within a mile or less of Forestville for a number of years down to 1841. The voluminous Kagey history was given to the public in 1899.

We may assume with a degree of assurance that Mr. Wine, more than once during the extended period of his researches, found a kindred spirit in his intimate association with his older first-cousin, Dr. J. Carson Miller, who was engaged in a similar task and who in 1936 published the first volume in a series of four on Jacob Miller and his descendants. This was the same Jacob Miller that came to the Valley of Virginia with Michael Wine in 1782. These Millers, like Michael Wine and his descendants, lived in and went out from the Forest. Dr. Miller's birthplace and old home was in the Forest, near Moore's Store.

John W. Wayland.

CHAPTER I

Background Glimpses

Dr. Celesta Wine, who holds the chair of English in Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C., had expected and planned to write this chapter. She has done extensive research work on Michael Wine (1747-1822) and his father, John George Wine, immigrant to America in 1749; but at the last minute she found it impossible to carry out her plan, due to conditions over which she had no control.

The present author has devoted his efforts largely to tracing the descendants of Michael Wine's two older sons, George and John, and the third daughter, Catherine, wife of Eld. Benjamin Bowman Jr. At this late date he cannot undertake to substitute for Dr. Celesta Wine, or duplicate what she might have written, but gives in this chapter a variety of items that have come to him over a period of more than forty years. They may be in the nature of odds and ends, but will throw some light on the background of the persons and places that appear in succeeding chapters.

He was fortunate to have known personally six of the 72 grandchildren of Michael Wine and his wife, Susannah Miller, that grew to maturity. Two of them were Eld. John M. Wine of David City, Nebr., and his oldest brother, Benjamin Wine. The latter was a neighbor all his life on part of the ancestral farm adjoining that of the author's father. Both brothers were raised there, and after the early death of their mother were cared for partly by their grandmother. The author as a boy, and later as a young man, spent hours listening to them rehearse the traditions of the family as told to them by their grandmother. The author's grandfather, Eld. Jacob Wine, whose death occurred before the author's birth, passed these same traditions down through his son, Eld. Daniel P. Wine, the author's father.

Tradition is frequently in error in dates and other details, but usually it carries a body of fact and often it leads to the discovery of records that otherwise would never be found. In many cases records are vague or incomplete, but are better understood by means of the tradition. Tradition has preserved many things of interest from the earlier generations that without it would be lost altogether.

Dr. Martin Grove Brumbaugh, a former governor of Pennsylvania, author, historian, and an active minister of the Church of the Brethren, sent to Eld. Daniel P. Wine the following, as copied from the records of the Pennsylvania Historical Society:

On the ship "Elliot," from Rotterdam, landing at Philadelphia Aug. 24, 1749, came Johann George Wien.

On the ship "Duke of Widenburg," from Rotterdam, landing at Philadelphia Oct. 20, 1752, came Jacob Wein.

On the ship "Beulah," from Rotterdam, landing at Philadelphia Sept. 10, 1753, came Jacob Wein (also spelled Wynn).

On the ship "Commerce," from Amsterdam, landing at Philadelphia Oct. 9, 1803, came John Wein.

A photostat of the signature of the immigrant:

Johann gorg Wien
His name often appeared later simply as George Wein.

Dr. Celesta Wine in her research work has found a branch of Wines living in the eastern part of Virginia as early as 1730. They, it is believed by some, came from the British Isles and were Welsh or English, but it is the opinion of Dr. John W. Wayland and other well-known historians that, if they came to Virginia from England or Wales, they had first gone to the British Isles from Germany or Austria.

Eld. D. L. Miller, author, world traveller, minister (Ch. B.), lecturer, and co-author with Eld. Galen B. Royer of "Some Who Led," in his write-up of Eld. Jacob Wine of Forestville, Va., says: "To him we are indebted for the early history of the first settlers among the Brethren in Virginia and especially near Flat Rock. In 1876 the writer was fortunate enough to get a verbal history of the Flat Rock."

Below are quoted the first two paragraphs of Elder Miller's account of Eld. Jacob Wine:

> The subject of this sketch came from German ancestry. George Wine (Wein), his wife and two little sons landed in Philadelphia Aug. 24, 1749. He settled in York county, Pa., and in 1770 it is known they were members of the Little Conewago congregation.
> Michael, the younger son, who was but three years old when he landed in America, and who is the ancestor of nearly all the Wines in the United States, married Susannah Miller of Frederick, Md., about 1773 and moved to Shenandoah county, Va., near Forestville, in 1785. They had twelve children—six sons and six daughters.

Eld. Jacob Wine, a grandson of Michael Wine (1747-1822), was raised on a farm adjoining Michael's homestead. The farm on which he was raised his grandfather Michael had sold to his father, John Wine, in 1805. He was eleven years old at the death of his grandfather in 1822, and 37 at the death of his grandmother Susannah, in 1848.

The date given above of the coming of Michael Wine to Shenandoah County, Va., is evidently in error, as the records in the clerk's office of the said county show that he purchased his homestead near Forestville and Flat Rock in 1782; and Eld. Jacob Wine must have been mistaken in his statement to Elder Miller that Michael Wine, child immigrant of 1749, was the ancestor of nearly all the Wines in the United States. But that was the tradition of his day.

It must be remembered that the early settlers of the Valley of Virginia were virtually cut off from the rest of the world. There were no daily papers—very few if any of any kind; no telephones, no telegraph, no railroads, nor even stage coaches for a long time. They had very little communication with the rest of the state nor with Maryland or Pennsylvania from whence they had come. They knew very little of the people of other sections.

When the government of Virginia signed a treaty with the Indians that they would not cross the Blue Ridge Mountains to make settlements it practically isolated the Valley from that part of the colony east of the Ridge for a number of years. Of course, as counties were organized in the Valley the county courts and other officials had to communicate now and then with Williamsburg.

The "Pennsylvania Dutch," under William Penn's treaties with the Indians, were enabled to come down through the Cumberland Valley in Maryland into the Valley of Virginia without opposition from the Indians for twenty years or more. Through Moravian missionaries and the Friends (Quakers) money was raised to pay the Indians for their lands, but the business was delayed because it was hard to determine which tribe or tribes had best title to the lands. In 1754 the Indians left the Shenandoah Valley, moving to the Ohio Valley and beyond, where they joined with the French in making war on the English settlements. During the next seven or eight years there were frequent massacres in the Shenandoah Valley; numerous prisoners were carried off; and many families fled eastward across the Blue Ridge in an effort to escape the war parties.

It is very probable that neither Michael Wine 3 (1747-1822) nor his children or his grandchildren ever heard of those Wines that Dr. Celesta Wine found were living in Eastern Virginia as early as 1730. Our traditions seem never to have referred to them, but did hold it possible that a brother of Johann George Wien had come to America at some time unknown; and it does not appear that our Valley of Virginia people (in early times) ever heard of the coming of Jacob Wein in 1752, Jacob Wein (or Wynn) in 1753, or John Wein in 1803. Even very little was learned of Adam 2, the older brother of Michael Wine 3, except that he got his wife in Shenandoah County, Va., about 10 miles northeast from Michael's home. It was said that he lived in Baltimore, owned a fishery there; that his descendants settled in or near Stafford County, Va., and that later on a few crossed the Blue Ridge westward into Augusta County in the Valley of Virginia.

Records at Staunton show that an Adam Wine began to acquire land in Augusta County in 1795, became a well-to-do farmer, and died in the same county in 1821, leaving a wife and children.

From the foregoing it seems probable that, although the descendants of Michael Wine 3 are numerous, he is far from being the ancestor of even one-half of the Wines in the United States.

Mrs. C. H. Wine of Culpeper, Va., daughter-in-law of Daniel Wine, son of Daniel, the third son of Michael Wine 3, in forwarding to Mrs. H. S. Corey Jr. of Asheville, N. C., an abstract of a letter written by her daughter, Miss Georgia Wine, to another daughter, gives the following, as taken from the records of the Pennsylvania Historical Society:

> Johann George Wien, with wife and two sons, Adam and Michael, Adam 5 years old and Michael 3 years old, immigrated to America from the Rhine River in Germany Aug. 24, 1749. His signature with those of the other passengers arriving on that boat can be found at the building of the Penna. Historical Society at Philadelphia.

Mrs. Corey furnished the author with a copy of the foregoing. Mrs. Wine also says that her father-in-law, Daniel Wine, said his grandfather said the Wines belonged to the nobility. This agrees with the traditions given to the author in his youth.

The abstract of the letter Miss Georgia Wine wrote to her sister is as follows:

> I am afraid you would never guess what I did on Saturday, so here goes—I spent from 11 A. M. to 3:30 P. M. (without lunch) looking up records of our Grandfather "Johann George Wien," who landed in Philadelphia Aug. 24, 1749. The Librarian at the Penna. Hist. Society gave me about nine books to look thru giving the list of passengers at that date, the section of the Rhine they came from, the condition of their coming over, etc. They had a photostat of the signatures of all passengers from that ship and his signature has the name spelled "Wien." The second letter is unmistakably "i" which is an utterly different name from "Wein." They came over from a section along the Rhine of which Heidelberg was the principal town. They came over because of great civil and religious persecutions in Germany at that time. The Wines were originally from Austria and the word is the German translation of their word Vienna. Our grandfather was of the branch that went to Germany. It was all wonderfully interesting and I would much prefer having the name "Wien" than "Wein," as this clears up all possibility of its ever being of Jewish origin, which I have been asked so much since being in this section of the country..

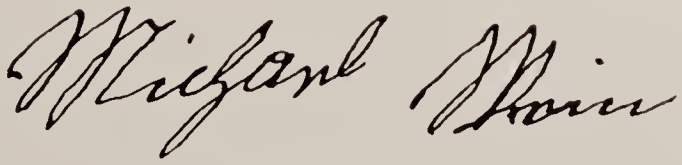
GEORGIA WINE.

Mrs. Charles Roy Jones, a sister of Miss Georgia Wine, of Culpeper, Va., gives the following:

As to the original spelling of the name, I believe Wien is correct. When my sister Georgia was in Germany she got the following information: When surnames were required (so the story goes) a family living in Vienna, Austria, was allowed to take the place name Wien (pronounced Vin). They were men of education, closely affiliated with the ruler of the country. Later some of them migrated to Germany, where they kept the same name. When they settled in America the name was Anglicized, as is often done. I have been told that there is no such surname as Wein in Germany. There are many combinations such as Weinberg, which is definitely Jewish.

While attending the commencement of Bridgewater College in June 1951, the author was looking up some German papers recently donated to the college. The librarian referred him to Mr. Klaus G. Wust, a German student, who has made extensive research regarding the early printers and their publications in the German language in Northern Virginia. On learning that my name was Wine he spelled it "Wein." I called his attention to the fact that my ancestor in signing the oath of allegiance on arriving at Philadelphia in 1749 had spelled it "Wien." Mr. Wust said that the German immigrants were told by an English officer how to spell their names, and the spelling is not always correct. He also said that the Wines living along the Rhine today spell their name "Wein"; that the name "Wein" was not of Jewish origin but "Wien" was.

In the Bible of Michael Wine 3 his birth-date is given as May 27, 1747. Accordingly, he would have been only three months past two years old when he landed in America. In a deed he made to Joseph Moore in 1805 (then at age 58) his name is written in German "Michael Wein." A photostat of it appears below.



Michael Wein

It must be remembered that many names in one language are frequently very hard to pronounce in another language, and the spelling is often uncertain in changing from one language to another.

This was especially true of the Germans that came to this country. Here in the Valley of Virginia, where the "Pennsylvania Dutch" was spoken in most of the homes for more than a century, there were frequent changes in both the spelling and the pronunciation of many family names. Documents presented to the courts, particularly wills, if originally written in German had to be translated into English before being accepted for record. This was true of the will of Eld. John Glick Jr., and the one who translated it spelled his name "Klückz." The English pronunciation of this was something like "Clicks"; and the name was often written "Click" in English. In the same clerk's office in the record copy of a deed by John Roller his name is spelled "Rooler."

In addition to language difficulties, there were various other factors that brought about changes in the spelling and pronouncing of surnames. Often it was a personal preference or whim. Frequently brothers and sisters would not spell their family name alike. In the Samuel Glick family of Augusta County, Va., one daughter chose to write her name "Click," while all the other members of the family retained the older spelling, "Glick." Elder John Garber, who joined farms with Michael Wine 3, had seven sons: six of them spelled the family name Garber, while Joseph, who lived at Stillwater, near Dayton, Ohio, wrote it "Garver," and his family to this day hold to that spelling. Even in important business papers and legal documents the same name may often be found spelled in different ways. For example, in a deed made to Eld. Martin Garber his name appears as "Gerver," "Gerber," "Garver" and "Garber."

It is the opinion of Dr. John W. Wayland, the well-known historian, that such differences and changes in names as we have been considering are not peculiar to Virginia or the United States, but that they may be found also in Europe. If this conclusion is well founded we can easily understand why different persons, even after extensive research, may still differ as to the correct or original spelling of the family names of their ancestors who came from Germany or other European countries. Furthermore, the author is convinced that names that may now be spelled the same way in English are not necessarily of the same origin.

The late Eld. John M. Wine of David City, Nebr., a grandson of Michael Wine 3, said that there was a John in every generation of his ancestors as far back as he could go. Johann George Wine dropped the Johann (John) and simply wrote his name George Wine (Wein); and Eld. John M.'s father and grandfather both were named John Michael, but both chose to write their name simply Michael Wine.

Mr. D. Sayler Good, late of Roanoke, Va., a great-grandson of Barbara Wine Myers 9, the second daughter of Michael Wine 3, wrote the author in 1929 on his return from a trip to Lancaster and York counties, Pa., as follows:

I have examined the records of York and Lancaster counties on my recent trip to Pennsylvania and found deeds in both places from George Wine but none from Michael Wine. The deed in York county, Pennsylvania, describes him as George Wein and Margaretta, his wife, yeoman, which means farmer, of York county, Pennsylvania, to George Moeller, recorded in Deed Book "G," and I have failed to put down the page No., but it was recorded November 23rd, 1761, and is dated the 20th, 1761.

On Sept. 20th, 1763, a deed recorded in Lancaster county on Sept. 22, 1763, in Deed Book "K," page 51, George Wein of the Burough of Lancaster in the county of Lancaster and Province of Pennsylvania, joiner, and Margaretta his wife convey to John Welty of the Burough and county aforesaid some property to secure the payment of a certain bond given by George Wein maturing yearly for about eight years.

Dr. Martin Grove Brumbaugh in his book, "A History of the Brethren," in giving the membership of the various congregations in Pennsylvania in the year 1770, lists George Wine and wife as members of the Little Conewago congregation, located in Hanover township, York county, Pennsylvania.

There is a tradition, probably true, though not verified, that there were other children born to John George and Margaretta Wine after their coming to America. Another tradition says that several of John George's brothers followed him to America. Unless either the Jacob Wein who came in 1752 or the Jacob Wein (Wynn) who came in 1753, or the John Wein who came in 1803, can be identified as his brother, nothing has been found to verify it. Among Revolutionary War veterans there are listed possibly six or eight Wines from Pennsylvania. Up to this time the author has not identified them, but it is certain that they were not the descendants of Michael Wine 3. In 1766 Michael Wine 3 went to Frederick County, Md. On November 19, 1766, he bought the Spring Plain land on Israel Creek, one and a fourth miles east of Boonsboro. In this deed his occupation is given as wagon-maker. About seven years later he married Susannah Miller, and here (in Frederick County, Md.) his four older sons, George, John, Daniel, and Samuel, and his oldest daughter, Elizabeth, were born.

According to Eld. John M. Wine, whose lot it was to stay with his grandmother in her declining years, while the rest of the family went to church, and who thus heard many family traditions from her, the reason that Michael Wine 3, Elders Samuel and Martin Garber and Jacob Miller and their families left Maryland in 1782 and settled in Shenandoah County, Va., was because their property had been confiscated by the authorities, this having been done because they had remained true to the non-resistant principles of their church (Ch. B.), then known as the Tunkers.

On April 3, 1782, Michael Wine 3 purchased of John Nicewanger 228 acres of land, a portion of a 428-acre tract granted to Thomas Holman in 1750 by the "Right Honorable Thomas Lord Fairfax, Baron of Cameron in that part of Great Britain called Scotland, Proprietor of the Northern Neck of Virginia." A tax of a shilling for every fifty acres was paid yearly to Lord Fairfax. It was on this land, near Flat Rock and Forestville, that Michael Wine 3 built, beside a never-failing spring, his house, which is still (in 1951) standing in good condition, occupied as a comfortable dwelling. In this house the Annual Meeting of 1794 of the German Baptist Brethren, then known as Tunkers, now as the Church of the Brethren, was held. The general assemblies were held in the second story of the house, which then was all in one room.

THE HOUSE OF MICHAEL WINE (1747-1822)
still standing in good condition near Flat Rock.

The Annual Meeting again was held in this vicinity in 1799, probably in the same house, as we may suppose that the large upstairs room was the place most suitable for it. Tradition in some sections was uncertain whether the meeting said to have been held in this house in 1794 was of that date or 1799. Since evidence later found shows that both meetings were in this section, the probability is that tradition was wrong as to the number of meetings in this house, rather than confused as to the correct date.

In most of the homes hereabout where the Brethren held religious services prior to 1841, when the first church was built, the house was so constructed that the entire lower story, save the kitchen, could be thrown into one room. This was done by hanging the partitions to joists by means of heavy hinges. Thus the lower edges of the partitions could be raised and hooked up to other joists.

The Michael Wine 3 home was for years a regular place for preaching in this community. Later the services were alternated between this home and that of Eld. Martin Garber. Soon after 1802 the homes of Michael Wine's son John, and his daughter Barbara, wife of Samuel Moyer (Myers), were added as meeting places. The monthly services then rotated from home to home of these four families, coming around to each home every sixteen weeks. It was the custom for the host to feed every one present and to furnish feed for all the horses.

The church services of this community continued to be held in these four homes until the Flat Rock Church was built in 1841. It was located on the edge of a flat limestone rock that covers several acres on the southeast corner of the farm of Michael Wine 3. The site for the church was donated by his son Michael, who had inherited the old homestead.

When Michael Wine 3 and his neighbors settled here in 1782 they were in what was known as "The Forest," a region covering a number of square miles. The name continued in use for many years and still survives in "Forestville." Southwest of the Forest was Timber Ridge, including the site of the present Timberville, and on the eastern border of the Forest, between Forestville and Mt. Jackson, was the Pine Woods.

In this land of virgin timber the settlers had to do much chopping and clearing before they could plant their fields and gardens. On these they had to depend for much of their food. They made most of their household furniture and many of their kitchen utensils. Practically all of the farming implements were made at home and in the local blacksmith shop. Flax and hemp were raised to be spun into thread and then woven into cloth. Wool from the sheep was put through corresponding processes, and from the homemade linen, jeans, and linsey-woolsey garments for the family were made.

In those days it took men and women of stout hearts, fixed purpose, and strong, skillful hands to meet and overcome the many obstacles with which they had to contend. The little communication they had with the older communities from which they had come required time and toil. The story is told of Barbara Garber, the mother of Elders Samuel and Martin Garber, that upon two different times she walked back to Maryland and Pennsylvania on a visit. The round-trip distance each time was nearly or quite 400 miles. This was no solitary instance. In 1800 Rev. John Brown walked from Pennsylvania to Rockingham County, Va. In 1802 Ambrose Henkel walked from the Forest to Hagerstown, Md., to learn the printing business with John Gruber, the famous almanac-maker. Other similar instances could be found.

In 1803 Michael Wine 3 bought the remaining 200 acres of the Thomas Holman grant. Two years later he sold 170 acres of it to his son John 5. His deed of 1805 to John is the last deed made for the greater portion of the tract, as it has since been handed down by will.

Michael Wine 3 made his will on June 11, 1821. It was admitted to probate at the court held in Woodstock on February 10, 1823, with his sons John 5 and Michael 12 qualifying as executors. He made ample provision for his widow, Susannah, and his oldest daughter, Elizabeth, who was still unmarried. She was to be cared for by her brother Michael. However, she did not long remain single: on April 16, 1822, she became the second wife of Eld. Daniel Arnold of Burlington, now in Mineral County, W. Va. By this marriage she became the step-mother of fourteen children that had been born to her husband and his first wife, Elizabeth Thomas. It was in her home later in the same year (1822) that Michael Wine 3, while on a visit, took sick and died. He was buried in the Beaver Run Church Cemetery near her home.

After making the provisions aforesaid, Michael Wine 3 in his will directed that each of his eleven children, George, John, Daniel, Samuel, Elizabeth, Barbara, Catharine, Susanna, Michael, Christian, and Magdalene, were to share alike. He had helped his six sons to buy their homes, except Michael, who was given the home place. He specified that those of his children that had received more than their pro rata share were to pay all above it back to his executors. The latter were instructed in paying the balances, to make the several children equal, to begin with the oldest son and then go on down in order of age till all were paid. In the same manner, after the sons were paid, the daughters were to receive their inheritance. His son Samuel was not to pay over the amount that he had received from his father above his pro rata share until he had finished paying for his place. Then he was to pay it in four annual instalments.

After the death of his widow, Susannah, the personal property she had chosen to hold was to be equally divided among his children, if they could agree among themselves; if not, it was to be put up at public sale and sold, and the proceeds divided.

A family tree is frequently found in books on genealogy. Instead of preparing a tree, the author of this work has chosen to give below in tabular form the children and grandchildren of Michael Wine 3, with names of husbands and wives when known. The names of the grandchildren are listed in known order of birth except in the families of Daniel 6, Samuel 7, and Magdalene 14. Data in hand is not sufficient to determine the order in which their children were born, or that others were not born, dying in childhood.

It was replaced by the present church in 1906-07.

Some years ago those working on the descendants of Michael Wine 3 decided that, since Johann George Wine came to America when his son Michael 3 was a little over two years old, it would be proper to consider him (Johann George) the first generation, or as representing the first generation, in America. Therefore we count him as No. 1 in this section of the Wine genealogy and regard him as founder of the family that we trace through the descendants of his son Michael 3 (1747-1822).

Before proceeding to the genealogy of Michael Wine 3 and his descendants, we present a brief summary of facts relating to Johann George 1 and his older son, Adam Wine 2, duplicating mostly particulars already set forth in our "Background Glimpses."

1 Johann George Wine (1st generation), with his wife and two young sons, emigrated from the River Rhine, Germany, landing at Germantown or Philadelphia, Pa., August 24, 1749. He settled in York County, Pa., with the two children that were born in Germany, and there is a strong probability that others were born in America. The two born in Germany were Adam Wine No. 2, born about 1744, and Michael Wine No. 3, born May 27, 1747.

2 Adam Wine (2d generation), born about 1744, married Elizabeth Glick, daughter of John Glick Sr. of near Hudson's Cross Roads, five miles northwest of Mt. Jackson, Shenandoah County, Va. Her brother, Eld. John Glick Jr., was the father of Elizabeth Glick Neff (1781-1834) who had two sons and a daughter that married into the John Wine 5 family. Her sister Catherine Glick became the wife of Michael Wine 12. John 5 and Michael 12 were both sons of Michael Wine 3 and his wife Susannah Miller.

Tradition says that Adam Wine 2 owned a fishery in Baltimore; that later his descendants settled in Virginia, east of the Blue Ridge; and that later still some of them crossed over into Augusta County, Va. An Adam Wine bought land in Augusta County in 1795 and later.

We here leave the family of Adam Wine 2 and devote our attention to his younger brother Michael Wine 3 and his descendants.

CHAPTER II

Michael Wine (1747-1822)

And the First Generations of His Descendants

3 Michael Wine (2nd generation), b. May 27, 1747, on the River Rhine in Germany; came to America with his parents in 1749. In 1766 he purchased a farm near Boonsboro, Md., where he married Susannah Miller, b. Nov. 24, 1754, d. March 8, 1848. His older five children were born at Boonsboro, where he is mentioned in his deed as a wagon-maker. On April 3, 1782, he purchased a farm near Forestville, Shenandoah County, Va., where the seven younger children were born. He died on a visit to his oldest daughter, Elizabeth Arnold, near Burlington, now in Mineral County, W. Va., in 1822, and was buried in the Beaver Run Cemetery.

The Michael Wine family has a record that all can be proud of. In it are to be found outstanding farmers, educators, ministers of the Gospel, business and professional men and women. In the earlier days the women of the family often were not given proper credit for their share of the accomplishments. Nevertheless, without their loyal cooperation the husbands and fathers could not have attained the success they did. The strong moral and religious background in the Church of the Brethren communities in which they lived provided strong incentives to fear God and do right. It has left to succeeding generations a heritage of ideals and habits that are worth emulating.

Among Michael Wine's descendants belonging in this section of our compilation we know of more than 130 ministers of the Gospel, and in addition many other devoted church workers. More than 110 of these ministers have belonged to the Church of the Brethren.

This first section will now be limited to the decendants of George 4, John 5, and Catherine 10 of the 3d generatiion, all children of Michael No. 3 of the 2d generation.

THIRD GENERATION

4 George Wine (3dG.), b. June 3, 1774, in Frederick County, Md., d. May 5, 1845; m. Magdalene Garber, b. June 14, 1774, or April 4, 1775; d. July 26, 1832; da. of Eld. John H. and Barbara Garber. They settled near Ottobine, Rockingham County, Va., on a farm, a portion of which at least remains in the possession of their descendants. Both are buried in the private cemetery on their farm.

George Wine 4 was a minister and elder in the Church of the Brethren. His father-in-law, Eld. John H. Garber, had settled near Flat Rock, Shenandoah County, Va., the first Tunker (Church of the Brethren) minister to locate in the Valley of Virginia. John Garber and his five younger children came to the Valley from Frederick County, Md., in 1775. Of his seven sons, six were active ministers and two of his daughters married ministers. His grandson, Eld. Abraham D. Garber, and his granddaughter, Elizabeth Garber, like their aunt Magdalene, married into the Wine family.

The farm that John Wine purchased of his father (Michael No. 3) in 1805 near Forestville, Va., has been handed down by will from father to son to the present and is now owned by his great-granddaughter, Miss Annie R. Wine. John Wine and his wife raised a pious family who were not only successful in business but also gave the Church (Ch. B.) three ministers (a son and two sons-in-law) and two deacons (a son and a son-in-law).

Mr. Bowman, husband of Catherine Wine 10, was a son of Eld. Benjamin Bowman Sr. (Ch. B.), who secured a large grant of land at Green Mount in about 1784 or 1785. In addition to being a good financier, he was an active church leader. When a church district was formed with what is now U. S. Route 33, running through Harrisonburg, as the southwest boundary and extending northeast to the Potomac River, he was placed in charge of it as senior elder or bishop.

The son, Benjamin Jr., it is said, was rather a wayward youth until one night upon his return home he heard his parents making fervent intercession at the Throne of Grace in his behalf. This so touched him that he united with the church. He grew into an active leader in the denomination and was made an elder. When the large district over which his father presided was divided into three he and Eld. Daniel Miller were placed jointly in charge of the Green Mount Church.

AN "OLD FOLKS SINGING" AT BEAVER CREEK CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN, ROCKINGHAM COUNTY, VA.

This building, erected in 1869, replaced one that burned earlier in the same year. A more modern structure now stands near the same site.

The Michael Wine family have been predominently members of the Church of the Brethren, at times in the past known as Tunkers, Dunkers, and German Baptists. Through the kindness of Mrs. Robert Scott Borger, No. 730, of Kirkland, Wash., we publish below a copy of an article by Mrs. Annie Wine Baker, No. 44, in her family Bible in tribute to her mother. This narrative is so true to the experiences in scores of other homes of Brethren ministers that we gladly give space to it and also to the introduction from the pen of the venerable local Brethren historian, Eld. C. E. Nair, who grew up near the Baker home.

Brethren historians are loud in their praise of the Brethren Pioneers who gave themselves whole-heartedly to the ministry of the church without financial remuneration and still were able to provide well for their families, and were often looked upon as being among the most successful business men of their communities. And so we today do well to pay tribute to those noble lives.

But while we are praising those men for their self-sacrifice and heroic efforts we must also realize that much of their accomplishments were attained because of the coöperation of the wives and mothers of that day. Besides the home-keeping it was theirs to oversee the farm work and often endure hardship in order to make it possible for the husband and father to make the long trips on horseback that were necessary for carrying the Gospel to the frontier.

The following, written by Mrs. Annie Wine Baker, telling about her own mother's part as a minister's wife of the olden days, sets forth experiences that were not unusual in the lives of those women who stood back of their minister husbands. She says:

"Our mother, Annie Burner Wine, was born in the year 1799. Twenty-four years later she was married to John Wine. Their home was in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. He was a minister and elder in the Beaver Creek congregation, Rockingham County. He was affiliated in his labors for the church with Elders John Kline, Benjamin Bowman, Solomon Garber, Martin Miller, and others, who led at that age of our church history. Horseback riding was the common mode of travel and he spent much time in the saddle, making long trips into Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and the mountains of what is now West Virginia. Thus, mother had much of the responsibility of the home and family cares, but she was never known to complain; her cheerful, happy disposition and sunny smile were an inspiration to all around her. But she must have had much anxiety, for the mountain streams were often swollen, the roads in bad condition, and for days and perhaps weeks there would be no word from father: there were no daily mails or rural telephones: but their faith never yielded in face of trials but only shone brighter and purer by their Divinely directed discipline, a brave, refined nature, ever ready to bless.

"She was much concerned for the sick, no matter how degraded. She would say, 'It makes no difference what their life has been, we must take care of them now that they are sick.' She was especially kind to the poor; none went empty from her door. Her home was well regulated and she never seemed happier than when serving either her own family or the many Brethren and friends that were entertained in her home. The children were early taught to kneel for worship at the family altar. She had a sweet musical voice and always sang a hymn before prayer. One of her favorite hymns was, 'The Day is Past and Gone,' but when we were alone she often sang a melodious German song. She was the mother of nine children. Two died in infancy. Of the six daughters, three were preachers' wives and the only son is George W. Wine, the aged elder in the Sangerville congregation; all were members of the church she loved. In her early married life, when preaching services were held in homes, our house was a regular meeting-place. She was called home in 1894. If she had lived 5 more years she would have lived in 3 centuries."

In 1836 or 1837 Daniel Wine 18 moved his family to Lima, Ohio. In 1854 he, in company with David Brower (minister), Solomon Wine, William Harvey, Jonas Stoner, and their families, and Daniel Stoner, Abe Stoner, John Riggle, and Solomon Cramer, who had no families at that time, migrated to Keokuk County, Iowa, settling near South English. They forded the Mississippi River at Ashtabeulah, traveled in covered wagons, and camped in circles at night to have a lookout for the Indians, who shot at them from ambush. On September 22, 1855, the English River Church of the Brethren was organized with David Brower and wife, Solomon Wine and wife, Daniel Wine and wife, Peter Wolfe and wife, Samuel Flory and wife, William Harvey and wife, Sallie Flory, and a few others by the name of Wolfe, all as charter members.

Daniel Wine was considered to be quite progressive. While in Iowa he owned a thermometer and took a New York newspaper, something very unusual at that time. He was the only man in his community to have lightning rods on his house. He was a farmer and also followed the carpenter trade, training young men under him as carpenters and for such work as making chairs, turning table legs, matching flooring, constructing window sash and door panels and building walnut caskets (coffins).

Most of the items in the two paragraphs preceding are from notes furnished by Earl Harvey, No. 815.

In 1867 Daniel Wine and his wife located at Jasper, Mo., where they died and lie buried in the Dry Fork Cemetery.

Daniel Wyne

John Bowman's first wife was Susannah Wine 11, who d. Sept. 21, 1821; da. of Michael Wine 3 and wife Susannah Miller. Upon his 2d marriage to Rebecca Wine 23 it is very probable that he located in Shenandoah County near Forestville and near Rebecca's parents, living there until 1839. It is known that their older children were born there. This marriage was looked upon by many of the church leaders with disfavor, "a deacon of the church to marry his own niece." The facts are, Rebecca was his first wife's niece, no blood kin to him; but the popular feeling may have inclined him to move away from Green Mount.

The tradition is that John Bowman and his brother Benjamin, who had married sisters, had lived together and held all their property jointly: whether this continued until John in 1839 moved to what is now (1951) the Jacob S. Sharpes place a mile and a half west of Harrisonburg on Route 42, where the large stone house is built over a spring, is not definitely known; but at the termination of their living together their property was divided to their mutual satisfaction, and to the satisfaction of all concerned. John Bowman was a farmer and his last postoffice address was Dayton, Va.

Jacob Wine was a successful farmer, a man whose sound judgment was frequently sought by his neighbors, and one of the leading ministers (Ch. B.) of his day. Each year he traveled several thousand miles on the back of his faithful riding mare Kit, his missionary journeys frequently taking him through the sparsely settled sections of West Virginia, adjacent on the west. He is mentioned as one of the early ministers who preached in a number of churches of that region. Eld. John Kline was frequently a traveling companion on these missionary tours. Eld. D. L. Miller in his book, "Some Who Led," in his sketch of Eld. Jacob Wine says that he was a speaker who captivated his audiences in his first few sentences; that in many respects he was a remarkable man; at District and Annual Meeting modest and reserved, but in the council meetings of his home church active and forward; in funerals tender and sympathetic. He preached both in the English language and in the "Valley Dutch."

He was kind to the poor, and on his missionary tours gave away thousands of dollars to the needy. Many years later a prominent business man of Shenandoah County, Va., told the writer that his father told him that he as a boy would have had to go to bed hungry many a night if it had not been for Eld. Jacob Wine. It must be remembered that in the days of Negro slavery many poor white men, day laborers, often could not get work that the slaves could do. My informant's grandfather did work that required skill, but the jobs he could get were not enough to enable him to provide for his family. Often he would go for days trying to get a bushel of wheat to feed his wife and children but usually failed until he called on Mr. Wine, who never turned him down.

John Neff (1809-1875) lived on part of the original Neff tract, was a successful farmer and an ative minister (Ch. B.).

Jacob Wine went to Ohio when still a young man; worked for Henry Brubaker, his future father-in-law. It is said that in Ohio at that time it was customary to put a match to the straw stack as soon as the threshing machine was pulled away. When young Wine objected to burning the straw his employer asked him what he wanted with it, and he replied that he wanted to haul it out on the wheat as a cover crop. His experiment proved so valuable that it put an end to burning straw in that section of the country.

CHILD

1. Elizabeth S. Sanger 1024, b. March 1, 1873

Mr. Sanger located at Bridgewater about 1874; was a druggist and later was associated with George W. Thomas and others in general merchandising. He was an outstanding minister of his denomination (Ch. B.), and it was largely through his leadership that a church building (not now standing) was erected in 1878 just northeast of the town. A number of times he represented his distirct at Annual Meeting, was twice moderator and once reading clerk. His own limited education caused him to become intensely interested in the Brethren schools and colleges. He was a member of the first board of trustees of Bridgewater College; later, while living in Indiana, he gave active support to North Manchester College, and during his final years in California he was a warm friend of Laverne College.

Mr. Thomas, as one of the trustees and directors of Bridgewater College, was much interested in the success and growth of the institution. In the history of the college that was published in 1930 it is stated (page 63) that while Walter B. Yount was president, "John W. Miller, George W. Thomas, Daniel T. Click, George W. Snell, Samuel F. Miller, and James A. Fry must have given from a fourth to a half of their time, during a number of years, to thinking and working in behalf of the school." Inasmuch as Mr. Thomas and Mr. Fry lived nearest to the college, they probably were most frequently called upon for advice and assistance. These men all served without pay and were always liberal subscribers whenever money was to be raised.

A TREK TO TENNESSEE

After nearly all of this book except the index was in type, Joseph Albert Wine 749 of Petersburg, Va., son of Joseph Solomon Wine 199, found an interesting paper which his father had made up for him and which Albert at once forwarded to the editor. This paper shows the marks of age and the items on it were evidently written by different persons at different times. The later items pertain chiefly to the family of Solomon Wine 45, of Mossy Creek, Va., father of Joseph Solomon Wine 199, and all of these are to be found on pages 36, 37, 93, 94, and other related pages of this volume; but certain statements on the first page of the old manuscript are not given anywhere in this book and are of special interest, to wit:

"Christian Wine moved from near Woodstock in Shenandoah Co., Va., to near Jonesboro, Washington Co., Tenn., Arriving there Aug. 14, 1837. . . . The wagon in which he moved is in the museum of the State Teachers College, Johnson City, Tenn."

It is also stated that Christian was a son of Michael Sr. and that Michael's fater, George Wine, came to America from Germany to escape religious persecution.

Christian Wine (1795-1891) was the 11th child and 6th son of Michael (1747-1822); his wife was Barbara Beahm. —See pages 13 and 16 of this book. The land in Shenandoah County, Va., from which he moved in 1837 lies between Forestville and Quicksburg, about 16 miles southwest from Woodstock, the county-seat of Shenandoah County. The Christian Wine land and an adjacent tract, the latter in comparatively recent years occupied by Samuel A. Wine 87, seems to have been purchased at some early date by John Wine No. 5, the author's great-grandfather.
